Reading task: To be able to infer (think about) how a character feels.

Description: Today, we're focusing on how the crocodile and the bird felt when they saw 'a lake full of crocodiles by a forest full of birds'. The crocodile and the bird realised that they weren't brothers. Your task today is to think about these two characters and what has happened so far in the story.

Task: What might both of the characters be thinking in the picture? Don't forget, they've just found out that they're not brothers and there are other crocodiles and birds.

Year 1: Please share your answers with someone at home by talking through the questions.

Year 2: Please record your answers by writing them down.

Extra challenge for Year 2: What might the characters say to each other as they leave one another?
