Hi 3W!

I hope you have all had an amazing week full of lots of memorable learning experiences and achievement of challenges!

I have been incredibly impressed over the last week at the amount of fantastic learning that I have seen online and what has been sent to me via email and Twitter. It has been lovely to see all of your work and you showing all of your amazing talents and skills to your loved ones at home. Every day, I think to myself how lucky I am to have a class full of incredible learners who make me proud and smile every day!

I have certainly missed the sunshine this week and I hope it will be returning soon as I have been really enjoying doing my learning outside and having a few barbecues for my dinner too. I would love to know some of the ways that you have been keeping busy when you have finished your learning in this rainy weather, so please feel free to email me or tweet me your suggestions.

Our term 5 topic was meant to be all about a place called Benin. Have any of you have been able to discover any interesting facts about Benin yet? If you have, please send them to me via email and I could create a 3W fact page of all of our knowledge and then put it onto Twitter to share with the rest of our school community.

I am missing every single moment of being able to teach all of you in our classroom and I hope it won't be long and it will be safe for us to return. What I would like you to think of in the meantime is a time that you felt so happy in the classroom and a time that you were doing a learning activity that you enjoyed so much. This should help to make you smile and remind you of how much you have got to look forward to when we return to school.

Please keep smiling, staying strong, learning, baking, listening, helping and being true Crofties to everyone you are with at home. This won't be forever and we will be back together before you know it! Keep making me proud and remember I always love to hear from you all even if it is just a quick hello!

I hope to see you all soon, have a great weekend!
Miss Webb
