Dear 4B,

I am missing you lots and lots! It feels very strange to be at home and not teaching right now but I am certainly making the most of staying at home and staying safe.

On my daily walks, I have been trying to get to know the area where I live a little better and have found many new walking routes. One of the routes even led me to a farm which was lovely! I have been making the most of the sunshine and have been doing lots of reading in my garden. So far, I have read 9 books! How many have you all read? Hope you are keeping up the reading at home and getting round to reading books you've been meaning to read for ages like me.

I've been keeping up my piano practice and have learned to play some songs from the greatest showman! My husband is getting a bit fed up of me playing a million dreams though so I might have to learn some new ones.

My biggest achievement so far is that I have completely redone my garden and FINALLY started my vegetable patch. As I'm a beginner, I've started off with just radish and carrot but I'm really proud of myself for having a go!

Thank you for your lovely emails, photos and twitter messages! It's so lovely to see your beautiful faces.

Stay home and stay safe!
Love from,
Mrs Britton x
